Description

We are a young, energetic Hungarian team. Our firm's main goal is to produce cold-pressed vegetable oils in perfect quality. The quality of the oil depends on production method (extraction or pressing). Thanks to our cold-pressing technology, we use NO chemicals during the making procedure. The residue (so called „pellet”) from the pressing can be milled. It has the same good qualities as the oil (it still contains significant amount of oil), so it can be used as natural additives for baking or for animal feeding. Our main product is cold-pressed grape seed oil which is extremely rich in antioxidants and bioactive compounds, which play an elemental role in the modern nourishment and to protect our health. It is a good source of Vitamin E and unsaturated fatty acid. Its colour is dark green and has a really high smoke point, which is around 250 °C, (unlike other often used oils which have an average 200 °C smoke point) It means that during baking and cooking there are no carcinogenic material formations under 250 °C, which would appear in the fumes. The grape seed oil could be used for cooking steaks, fishes, and for salads, sauces, dippings or simply for a slice of garlic toast. Using it in our dietary means we eat delicious food which are really healthy.
