Description

We are a young, energetic Hungarian team. Our firm's main goal is to produce cold-pressed vegetable oils in perfect quality. The quality of the oil depends on production method (extraction or pressing). Thanks to our cold-pressing technology, we use NO chemicals during the making procedure. The residue (so called „pellet”) from the pressing can be milled. It has the same good qualities as the oil (it still contains significant amount of oil), so it can be used as natural additives for baking or for animal feeding.
